1. The Yugoslav Government is not convinced that the American Government desires peace, but rather that the latter wants a world war which will aid in destroying Communist activity throughout the world. After the break with the Kremlin in 1948, the Yugoslav leaders thought that America was sincere in its quest for peace, but the Yugoslavs believe that they were mistaken about the Americans' intentions. 25X1
2. Tito is convinced that the present leaders of the Soviet Union are earnestly seeking a definite, durable peace. Members of Yugoslav consulates and embassies have received instructions to the effect that they should maintain a frank and complete collaboration with Soviet representatives abroad. Numerous meetings have been held lately with certain Soviet leaders. Collaboration between Russia and Yugoslavia has never been as close as at present. 25X1
3. Yugoslavia is seeking to align other countries in the formation of a third force (sic) against war. 25X1
 In the event of war, however, the only hope for Yugoslavia is to side with the people's democracies. 25X1
4. As an aftermath of the Djilas-Dedijer affair, Yugoslav missions abroad have received instructions to redouble their watchfulness for lack of discipline. 25X1
